

Photography in the Galleries

Visitors to The Newark Museum of Art are permitted to take photographs in Museum galleries and the Ballantine House under the following conditions:

- Photography is allowed in collection galleries only. Unless otherwise indicated, it is prohibited in temporary exhibition spaces or where a “No Photography” symbol appears on any label or near any object unless otherwise stated.
- Visitors may photograph using handheld cameras or cell phones and existing lighting only. Flash photography, camera bags, tripods, additional lights, extension cords, and extending devices such as “selfie sticks” are prohibited.
- Photography must not interfere with Museum operations or limit access to entrances/exits, doorways, and other high traffic areas. A distance of at least three feet from all artworks must be maintained. Stepping onto platforms with artwork is not permitted.
- Photography is allowed for noncommercial, educational, and personal use only, or for “fair use” as authorized in the United States copyright laws. Photographs may not be published, sold, reproduced, transferred, distributed, or otherwise commercially exploited in any manner whatsoever.

*The Museum makes no warranties or representations and assumes no responsibility for any claims, royalties or fees claimed by the artist, on his or her behalf, or by any other person claiming a copyright or other interest in the work being reproduced.

The Office of The Newark Museum of Art Registrar also has high quality photographs of collection objects available for students and scholars to use for lecture, study, and publication. To request professional images, for further copyright information, or for permission to reproduce any works in the museum’s collection, please contact the Rights and Reproductions Registrar:
