LETTER FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear Members and Supporters,

In the face of adversity and through the darkness of a pandemic, our community of artists, educators, and donors shined light on a new path for The Newark Museum of Art – as a 21st-century institution with measurable local impact, a growing global significance, and a virtual audience approaching five million.

In the last year, we've been joined by new curators for Arts of Global Africa and Arts of Global Asia, acquired and commissioned artworks now on display, and ramped up our exciting lineup of community programs and events.

Through our inspiring collections, impactful exhibitions, and unparalleled STEM+Arts services, we've uplifted our growing network of families, educators, and artists. Because of your support we delivered on our vision to be of the community and an advocate for the appreciation and study of arts and sciences for everyone.

In 2022, we strengthened existing partnerships and developed new ones with some thirty local organizations. For the first time in the history of the Newark Arts Festival, the Museum hosted both the opening event and main exhibition, featuring some of the greatest artistic talents in Newark. We also expanded the NMOA's presence in the community by hosting several events outside our walls, such as the film series at Riverfront Park, and by participating in various festivals across the city.

These efforts have contributed to expanding the reach of the Museum, increasing our Newark-based program audience by 21%, and our BIPOC audience by 28%. Today, more than 77% of our program attendees are people of color and 65% are under 45 years of age. As such, we are more representative of the communities we serve, and we have established ourselves as a leader among American museums in successfully engaging young and diverse visitors.

We are immensely grateful for the generous support of our donors who make our extraordinary Museum what it is today.

In gratitude,

Linda C. Harrison
Director and CEO

“What I enjoyed was the inspiration that I received while there. I came home and was inspired to restart my own art career. I have been painting and crafting ever since the visit.”

“The art class was fabulous. The children and I were always amazed at the next project and how well they turned out upon completion. I would definitely have the children engage in visual art when and wherever possible. It is such an empowering experience.”

2022 IMPACT

The Newark Museum of Art is a museum of the community and we live by our mission statement: we welcome everyone with inclusive experiences that spark curiosity and foster community. As the destination museum of the region and state, our collections and programming are constantly evolving to meet the needs of our ever-changing and growing audiences. With the help of our partners and donors, we deliver a dynamic visitor experience that builds community and opens doors to cultures across the world.

This year, the Museum was re-accredited by the American Alliance of Museums, a gold standard that reflects the Museum's value and credibility to governments, foundations, donors, the public, and the broader museum community.

Science & Technology

The Museum's Learning & Engagement team delivered more than 250 STEAM-inspired programs connecting more young people to today's fastest-growing field.

In 2022, the Museum re-opened the Alice and Leonard Dreyfuss Planetarium, a spectacular, interactive theater for learning about astronomy, space, and planetary science.

In September, we opened Animal Kingdom, a new exhibition that explores our precious ecological systems through animal specimens, artworks, interactive features, and immersive spaces. The long-term installation in our Victoria art+science+tech galleries celebrates Earth's astounding variety of life and the role that humans play in its preservation.

The installation has been a cornerstone of our 2022 science programming, including Community Day: Celebrating Earth, our well-attended Earth Day event in April, and Science Extravaganza!, a series of fun science activities featuring our MakerSPACE, planetarium shows, and live animals.

Education

Our unique art and science programs have helped students succeed in the classroom for generations. Driven to meet the needs of families across our state, our educators created new resources and materials to support hybrid learning for over 17,000 students in pre-K–Grade 12. Among them: popular field trips, digital tool kits, and diversity and inclusion resources mapped to the NJ Board of Education curriculum in art, science, and history.

We are excited to see growing and diverse audiences in the return of public programs like Community Days, Art After Dark, and the Newark Black Film Festival.

Community Engagement

The Newark Museum of Art has always been a nexus of community. Our partnerships

“Art to me used to be how a picture looked to the eye. Now I know it has meaning and depth beyond what you see at first sight.”

-NAMISSA KOITA, NMOA EXPLORER

and donors ensured audience engagement through major offsite and online events, including Halsey Festival, a film series at Riverfront Park, So Fresh Festival, Kwanzaa at NJPAC, Newark Arts Festival exhibition, performances by the NJ Symphony, and much more.

Collections

Work has been underway all year to reopen the NMOA’s largest collection object, The Balantine House, a national historic landmark built in 1885. In late 2023, we’ll officially unveil an architecturally accurate and period-specific restoration that includes local narratives, contemporary art, and new multimedia and hands-on experiences. The exterior restoration project received New Jersey Historic Preservation award from Preservation New Jersey; $10.5 million invested by NMOA under Direct Care umbrella.

This year, the Arts of Global Africa gallery saw a major rotation that includes recent commissions and acquisitions.

Major commissions and acquisitions
