NEWARK, NJ — On June 15, 2023, The Newark Museum of Art's Billy Johnson Auditorium will host a film screening of "EMERGE: An NJ Symphony Concert Film Trilogy" and a filmmaker panel with director Yuri Alves, producer Igor Alves, and NJ Symphony Concertmaster Eric Wyrick, plus choreographer Cori Barnes.

The event will begin with an hors d'oeuvres and beverages reception at 6:30pm, to be followed by a 7:30pm screening of EMERGE "Maverick Cut" and the filmmaker panel. The film program will also present an excerpt from the Emmy® nominated "TRANSCEND," the companion film to "EMERGE," also starring the NJ Symphony, as well as a never before screened "Making Of EMERGE" featurette. Film stars Cori Barnes and Xian Zhang will receive special Emmy® nominee recognition for their contributions.

The event is presented by Express Newark's Community Media Center, in partnership with DreamPlay Films, NJ Symphony and The Newark Museum of Art.

In EMERGE, Alves and the DreamPlay Films team captured the NJ Symphony performances live at NJPAC with a highly immersive and uniquely intimate camera approach, while filming on ultra-high-definition RED cinema cameras. EMERGE expands the universe of orchestral music through a mix of live stage performance, stunning visuals, mesmerizing dance sequences and format-bending elements on and off stage.

DreamPlay Films and director Yuri Alves won two EMMY® Awards for films produced in Newark. EMERGE Part 1 won in the "Arts – Long Form" category and director-editor Yuri Alves also won in the "Editing" category in the Mid-Atlantic Region, earned for his work on GRIND and EMERGE Part 3. The individual awardees include: (2x) Yuri Alves, Director + Editing, Igor Alves, Producer, Xian Zhang, Writer / Musical Arrangement, Caroline Sincaruk, Camera Operator, Michael Gomes, Camera Operator, Victor Buitrago, Editor. DreamPlay Films and Yuri Alves also earned Emmy® nominations for TRANSCEND, in the "Documentary" category, and EMERGE Part 2, in the "Long Form Program" category. All nominated films were broadcast by NJPBS and PBS online, where they remain available to watch. The four EMMY® nominations and two wins are the first for DreamPlay Films and Yuri Alves, as well as for the New Jersey Symphony, which is celebrating its centennial anniversary year.

Director Yuri Alves says: "For EMERGE, we aimed to exceed audience expectations for a filmed orchestral performance - in these films, we really see Xian, the orchestra and the special guests at their best and from unique vantage points. And we go much beyond the stage, fusing the performance with new elements and even the world outside NJPAC. In so many ways, this project is about overcoming barriers and embracing change amid a disrupted world."

Producer Igor Alves says: "I hope audiences discover the EMERGE trilogy and treasure its unique sensibility and artistic and technical quality above all, while appreciating how it also advances diversity in the arts, in subtle yet powerful ways: the films star Xian, a Chinese female, conducting musical works by composers of color, in a film directed by Yuri, a Brazilian immigrant, also featuring dance performances by male and females of color."

EMERGE: An NJ Symphony Concert Film Trilogy

Music Director Xian Zhang leads the New Jersey Symphony back on the main stage to masterfully conduct a striking selection of orchestral works, showcased in a uniquely intimate style by maverick filmmaker Yuri Alves. The EMERGE concert film trilogy expands the universe of orchestral music through a mix of live stage performance, stunning visuals, mesmerizing dance sequences and format-bending elements. The EMERGE Trilogy features world-renown guest performers such as Simone Dinnerstein, Inon Barnatan and superstar Daniil Trifonov, and special collaborators like dancer Cori Barnes, M.A. Taylor, Neguin and more. dreamplaymedia.com/emerge
